ATHLETIC RELATIONS SOON MAY BE SEVERED

V. P. I. College Paper Declares Playing of "Big Three" by A. and M. Will Mean End of Contests Between These Colleges.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
West Raleigh, N. C., October 26.—Below is reproduced an article, that appeared in the Virginia Tech, the official organ of the V. P. I. General Athletic Association, in its issue of October 18, and the reply of A. and M. published yesterday in the athletic paper, the Wau Gau Rac.

From the Virginia Tech.

"Throughout the State the various papers have claimed that the V. P. I. will not play A. and M. in Norfolk on Thanksgiving Day. From A. and M. come reports that the game will be called off if three of their men who played professional baseball are not allowed to play. The public is very anxious to see these teams meet, and it is for the sake of the public that V. P. I. is willing to meet A. and M. The three men that V. P. I. objects to A. and M. playing were members of the Elizabeth City team in the Tidewater League last summer. This league was run under conditions similar to the Virginia State League, and who is it that for one moment would think that men of this league are pure athletes? The court of Norfolk proved that these men were professionals and members of the Tidewater League could not jump their contract and play with the State League.

"Some people think that V. P. I. is using this as a means of not playing A. and M. We hope that we will be able to meet them in all branches of sport, but the time has come when A. and M. has caused these pleasant relations to cease. V. P. I. is willing to meet A. and M. this year, but if these men play for A. and M. athletic relations with A. and M. will be over at the close. We are not afraid to meet any school of good standing, and hope that A. and M. will meet us with these men out of the game. A. and M. claims that if V. P. I. will be kind enough to let these men play this year it will not happen again. But we are certain if we allow this, A. and M. will have more so-called amateur athletes for us next year.

"So we hope they will act as men."

and for the sake of the game, for the sake of the public, and for the sake of the grand Old North State and their college, that they will bar these men out. Our reputation will suffer if we allow these men to play, so we hope that A. and M. will let us in friendly athletic relations, but if they play these men they will never meet V. P. I. in athletics again."

From the Wau Gau Rac.

What the Wau Gau Rac has to say: "For the benefit of the public it may be stated that A. and M. does not intend to play in its Thanksgiving game any one who is not eligible to play under its own rules as well as under its agreement with V. P. I. The public may further rest assured that the so-called 'big three,' Stafford, Seifert and Robertson will play in this game, since they are eligible, which fact V. P. I. will not attempt to deny, in spite of the insinuating article above quoted."

Dorrier-Pitts.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Scottsville, Va., October 26.—"Belle Haven," the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pitts, was the scene of a beautiful marriage Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Clara Lee Pitts, became the bride of Charles Richard Dorrier. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. Henry J. Brown. The rooms were decorated with autumn leaves, running cedar and potted plants. The bride entered with her brother, Marion L. Pitts, by whom she was given in marriage. Miss Elizabeth Wallace, of Staunton, was maid of honor. The matron of honor was Mrs. H. H. Johnson, of Norfolk. Walter S. Dorrier, a brother of the groom, was best man, and the groomsmen were John and Lindsay Pitts, James E. and Benjamin T. Dorrier, brothers of the bride and groom. Little Misses Katherine Pitts, Kathleen Colley, Stella Pitts and Master Edward Dorrier, acted as flower children, and Misses Virginia Pitts and Maud Dill-lard formed an aisle of ribbons for the bride party.

Just before the party entered Miss L. Wade, of Richmond, sang "Schubert's Serenade." The wedding march was rendered by Miss Mary C. Pitts, of North Carolina, with violin accompaniment by John Pierce, of Arvonia.

Among the out of town guests present were Miss Scott White and H. H. Johnson, of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pitts, Miss Winnie Pitts, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stone, of Arvonia; Mrs. R. L. Wade, and Miss Mary B. Powers, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Burroughs and Miss Annie Snyder, of Central Plains; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bell, of Altavista; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Pitts and Leake Pitts, of Elk Hill.

Ester Smith and Aldwin Kessler were assigned as fugitives from justice in Petersburg. They are said to have stolen a large quantity of whiskey and wine from W. T. Baily, Officer J. J. Hesen came for them yesterday afternoon and returned with them to Petersburg.

Geese-Clark.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Keyville, Va., October 26.—A marriage of interest was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of J. R. Geo, father of the groom, where a reception was given. The newly wedded pair, Mr. and Mrs. Geo, will be at home to their friends in their new home at Keyville, after November 1.

Bryan, New York; Secretary, J. I. Muller, Charleston, S. C.; General Manager, W. B. Chisolm, Jr., Charleston, S. C.

W. B. Chisolm was elected president at a previous meeting of the board.

Some Already Removed.

Some of the congregations will no doubt be glad to have their spires taken down, as the manner of construction is not so popular as it once was, and the spires themselves are a constant source of expense in painting and repairs. Some years ago the old

CHURCH STEEPLES MUST COME DOWN

seven years ago, but apparently there has been leakage near the top of the spire, causing the interior woodwork to rot rapidly.

Inspector Phillips reported last night that he had fully inspected the wooden steeples of the Grace Street Presbyterian Church, at Adams and Clay Streets, and found them in good condition, protected from the weather and apparently with an ample margin of safety for present conditions.

All to Be Inspected.

The inspection will go on to-day, beginning at Park Place Methodist, at Pine and Franklin Streets, and continuing until every wooden spire has been critically examined.

The inspectors report that the steeple of the First Presbyterian Church presents a curious mixture of old and new timbers. When the city purchased the lot occupied by the old church at Tenth and Broad Streets, to make way for the new City Hall, it engaged in compensation to furnish the lot at Madison and Grace Streets, and to duplicate the old church on that lot. A great deal of the old material was used, and the church erected under personal supervision of Colonel W. E. Cutshaw, then City Engineer. Practically all of the interior woodwork, the pulpit and pews, came from the old church and were retained for sentimental considerations.

In the centre of the spire of this church is an iron bracing rod. Many of the cross beams had given away, so that to get up into the apex of the steeple and examine its actual condition the inspectors had to climb this pole, a most difficult and dangerous undertaking at that altitude.

In the event that any members of the churches affected are not satisfied with his ruling, the Building Inspector has on exhibit in his office large pieces of worm-eaten wood, broken by hand from the supporting beams of the three steeples condemned.

No More Wooden Steeples.

If the churches affected by these orders, and whose spires are condemned, desire to preserve the architectural appearance of their buildings, they will have to build fireproof steeples. No more wooden steeples can be erected in Richmond under the building code, Section 29 reads: "No non-fireproof building or structure hereafter erected shall exceed sixty-five feet in height. No church spire, except if be built of fireproof material or steel frame, shall extend more than thirty feet above the highest point of the roof of the main building."

spire of St. Paul's Episcopal Church was removed, its interior wooden beams having rotted away. In a severe October storm about fifteen years ago the steeple of the old Second Baptist Church, then located at Sixth and Main Streets, fell across Main Street, blocking traffic, tearing down wires and doing considerable damage to the old Y. M. C. A. building just opposite. The wooden spires have always been regarded as more or less dangerous, especially when neglected and allowed to decay from exposure to weather. Many architectural authorities advise that such construction only be allowed with a steel core or centre, around which the steeple is built. A curious result is produced by this manner of construction, as the steeple always easily in the wind without danger, bending to the storm rather than attempting to stand against it.

Music in the Air.

Richmond's soldiers have taken to music to while dull care away. Some months ago the Blues cast about them for a means of amusement during their hours of ease, with the result that two player-pianos and one big graphophone made their appearance in the different company rooms. Now Companies A and F, of the First regiment, have put in plans of the kind that do the rest, and the armory resounds each evening with the latest classics of New York grand opera.

States That Parisian Sage is Best Hair Tonic.

"I had a bad case of dandruff. My scalp was full of dandruff, and it came out thick and scaly. My hair came out badly; often I nearly cried on account of losing my pretty head of hair. I heard of PARISIAN SAGE, and only had to use two bottles before the hair stopped coming out, the scalp became clean, and all the dandruff disappeared. The hair became silky, and one big reason that I liked PARISIAN SAGE was that it kept the hair smooth, silky and clean, with no traces of stickiness."

I believe this tonic to be the best on the market, as there has been no return of dandruff or hair falling out whatever. I am glad to publicly endorse the use of PARISIAN SAGE. I have often endorsed its use and am glad to do it."

PARISIAN SAGE, the delightful hair dressing and beautifier sold by Tragle Co. and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed for falling hair, dandruff and scalp itch. Large bottle 50 cents.

Worth Electric Vehicle Company against J. B. Lipscomb, a common lawsuit in assumpsit, was heard yesterday in Hustings Court, Part 2, before a jury. Judge Ernest H. Wells presiding. The plaintiffs were represented by George E. White and the defendant by Gregory & Boulware. The defendant admitted the injury to the plaintiff's property, but denies the assertion that he promised to pay the damages. This must be proved to the jury or the case will fall through under the form of suit brought. The facts as presented to the jury are as follows: Lipscomb was having some private hauling done on his employer's team, but without the knowledge or consent of the employer. The team became unmanageable, ran away and collided with an automobile, damaging it to such an extent that it was sent to the factory for repairs, under the alleged promise of Lipscomb to pay the costs, which amounted to $750.

The entire day was consumed by the taking of evidence, which, while very technical, was relieved by several lively titbits between counsel. At 5 P. M. the case went to the jury. Owing to the lateness of the hour the case was postponed until to-day.

In Police Court.

Promptly on the stroke of 9 Justice H. A. Hays yesterday morning mounted the bench. Assuming his judicial air, he signified his readiness to begin the usual collection of surplus funds in, or likely to be in, the pockets of such petty offenders as had transgressed the law. Surprise was written on his face when announcement was made that no one was ready to appear. However, several ordinance violators answered summons to appear. Ullman Brothers for using a wagon without a license number displayed; W. E. Bishop for allowing his horse to run at large, and Ed. McGlory for allowing his small boy to shoot a gravel-shooter on the street. McGlory was penalized a small sum. Justice Maurice again took pains to announce that children must not be allowed on the streets with slingshots or air-rifles. This was not prohibited under the old regime, but is now a violation of an ordinance of the city of Richmond.

Treasure Work on Bridge.

Work on the new bridge, which was stopped by the recent freshets, has now been resumed. Although the water is still too high to permit the rebuilding of the coffer dams which were washed away, steps have been taken which will make a speedy start. A gangway connecting Mayo's Island and the north bank of the river has been rebuilt, and the steam pumps are busily clearing out the water in the remains of the ruined coffer dams.
